Executive Summary

- ⇒ The total number of criminally sentenced, new court commitments to the Department of Correction during 1999 was 2,637, down 8 percent from previous year.
- ⇒ The breakdown by gender was 1,677 males (64% of total commitments), and 960 females (36% of total commitments).
- ⇒ There was a decrease of 13 percent for male commitments and an increase of 3 percent of female commitments from 1998 to 1999.
- ⇒ For the fifth consecutive year in a row the number of new court commitments to the DOC has decreased. The total number of commitments (N=2,637) during 1999 represents the smallest new court commitment population since 1990.
- ⇒ The mean and median age of 1999 commitments was 32.3 and 32 years respectively with a range of 15 to 80 years. The mean and median age for males was 31.9 and 30 years respectively, while the mean and median age for females was 33 years.
- ⇒ This year's racial and ethnic breakdown shows a 2 percent increase in Caucasian inmates, 10 percent decrease in Asian inmates, 21 percent decrease in African American inmates, 23 percent decrease in Hispanic inmates committed from the previous year.
- ⇒ The number of Hispanics decreased from 842 in 1990 to 698 in 1999, a decline of 17 percent. However, the proportion of Hispanic committed to the DOC increased from 22 percent in 1990 to 26 percent in 1999.
- ⇒ The number of commitments to the DOC for violent offenses (Person and Sex) decreased from 1,121 in 1998 to 1,020 in 1999, a 9 percent decline.
- ⇒ The number of individuals committed for Drug offenses declined by 11 percent between 1998 and 1999, the largest decline in the offense category during 1999.
- ⇒ Mandatory offenses accounted for 44 percent of all DOC commitments. Of the male commitments, the majority (58 %) were mandatory, versus (12 %) for females.
- ⇒ The number of commitments for Life sentences has fluctuated since 1990. The total number of Lifers significantly decreased between 1998 and 1999, from 82 to 57, a decrease of 30 percent.
- ⇒ Under the Truth-in-Sentencing law which was enacted in 1994, the proportion of new court commitments to the DOC increased from 90 percent in 1998 to 93 percent in 1999. However, the proportion of commitments pre-TIS fell from 10 percent in 1998 to 7 percent in 1999.

Introduction

This report presents a statistical description of individuals committed by the courts as a result of a criminal offense to the Massachusetts Department of Correction (DOC) during 1999.

Excluded from this report are individuals who were civilly committed to the Massachusetts Department of Correction facilities during 1999, as well as inmates received to await trial or be detained. Also, excluded are parole and probation violators that are admitted during the year.

The information in this report is a subset of the inmate population in DOC facilities. All new court commitments and those individuals who began serving new sentences during the year are included in this report. If an individual is committed to the Department more than once during 1999, each court commitment for that individual is counted separately. Some categories of offenders are not included in this report: those who began serving “B” and “C” sentences during 1999 (sentences received for crimes committed on parole).

The tables that follow contain information on personal background characteristics, current offense, and sentencing for these individuals. Information is also reported on trends in the commitment population over the last ten years, 1990 to 1999.

The data contained in these tables were derived from the inmate database maintained by the Department of Correction VAX system. Please note that much of the personal background data of the offenders are self-reported. Also, individuals may be incarcerated for multiple offenses. The offense reported is that which is associated with the sentence that governs the inmate’s latest discharge date. Due to rounding percentage totals may not add up to 100 percent in all tables.

Please note that the glossary at the end of this report contains explanations of certain terms used in this report.

Descriptive Overview of the DOC 1999 New Court Commitments

The descriptive overview of data represents all individuals committed to the Department of Correction during 1999 by gender. The descriptive overview of the data is divided into three sections. Section 1, describes the demographic characteristics of the New Court Commitments including race/ethnicity, marital status, religion, and age at incarceration. Section 2 examines current offense by offense category and specific offense. Section 3 provides detail on sentencing including minimum and maximum sentences, sentencing court, truth in sentencing, sentence type and count.

Section I: Demographic Characteristics of the New Court Commitments

During 1999, the breakdown by gender was 1,677 males (64% of total commitments), and 960 females (36% of total commitments). This represent an increase of 3 percent in female commitments to the DOC from the previous year and a decrease of 13 percent of male commitments over the same period.

Race/Ethnicity

The largest racial/ethnic group represented was Caucasian (47%), followed by Hispanic (26%) and African American (23%) and Asian (1%). Two out of three females committed to the DOC were Caucasian (68%) while 38 percent of males committed to the DOC were Caucasian. A larger proportion of Africa American commitments were males (33%) when compared with females (16%). Similarly, a larger proportion of Hispanic commitments were males (27%) in comparison with females (16%).

Marital Status

Fifty-nine percent of individuals committed to the DOC reported their marital status as single, followed by 13 percent married, and 10 percent divorced. Sixty-one percent of females were single at the time of commitment compared with 58 percent of males at time of commitment.

Religion

Statistics on religion indicate that 3 out 4 new court commitments were Christian. Nine out of 10 female commitments reported being Christian. Two out of 3 male commitments reported Christian.

Age at Incarceration

In 1999, 57 percent of the DOC commitments were between the ages of 25 and 39 years. Twenty-one percent of commitments to the DOC were inmates under 25 years old and the remaining 22 percent were 40 years and older.

Fifty-four percent of males committed to the DOC fell within the age range of 25 to 39 versus 64 percent females. The mean and median age for males was 31.9 and 30 years respectively, while the mean and median age for females was 33 years. The youngest male was 16 years and the youngest female was 17 years, whereas the oldest male was 72 years and the oldest female was 80 years of age.

Section II: Current Offense Category and Specific Offense

Current Offense

Thirty-one percent of 1999 commitments were incarcerated for a Person offense, 30% for a Drug offense, 16% for a Property offense, eight percent for a Sex offense, and 15% for Other offenses. Most females were committed for “Other” offenses (33 %), followed by Property offenses (26%), and Drug offenses (25%). A larger proportion of males committed were for Person offenses (31%), followed by Drug offenses (30%), and Property offenses (16%).

Person Offense

Offenses against the Person accounted for 31 percent of all DOC commitments, the highest offense category overall. The most common offenses against person were Armed Robbery (23%), Assault/Assault and Battery with a Dangerous Weapon (21%), and Unarmed Robbery (10%). Males committed for a Person offense were most likely to be serving an offense for Armed Robbery (27%), Assault/Assault and Battery with a Dangerous Weapon (18%), and Unarmed Robbery (11%). Females were most likely to be serving offense for Assault/Assault and Battery (40%) and Assault/Assault and Battery with a Dangerous Weapon (31%).

Sex Offense

Sex offenses accounted for 8 percent of all DOC commitments. The breakdown by gender was one percent for females (N=7) and 12 percent for males (N=202). The most common Sex offenses were Rape & Abuse of a Child (35%), Rape (17%), Rape of a child with Force (14%), and Indecent Assault and Battery on a Child less than 14 years old (13%).

Males committed for Sex offense were most likely to be serving an offense for Rape and Abuse of a Child (36%), Rape of a Child with Force (15%), and Indecent Assault and Battery less than 14 years old (13%). The most likely offenses for females were Unnatural Acts (43%), Indecent Assault and Battery on a Child less than 14 years old (29%), Indecent Assault and Battery on Victim 14 and Over (14%), and Sex offenses involving a minor (14%).

Property Offense

Property offense constituted 16 percent of all DOC commitments during 1999. The most common Property offenses were Larceny/Stealing (29%), Unarmed Burglary (28%), and Shoplifting (12%). Unarmed Burglary was the most common Property offense for males; Larceny/Stealing was the most Property offense for females commitments. A significant proportion of females were incarcerated for shoplifting (21%).

Drug Offense

Drug offenses comprised 30 percent of all DOC commitments. Class A Distribution or Possession with Intent to Distribute (15%) and Class B Distribution or Possession with Intent to Distribute (15%) were the most common Drug offenses overall. Mandatory offenses accounted for 44 percent of all DOC commitments. The most frequent Drug offense for male commitments was Class B Distribution or Possession with Intent to Distribute (17%). For female commitments the most common Drug offense was Unlawful Possession of Particular Controlled Substance (41%). Of the male commitments, the majority (58 %) were mandatory, versus (12 %) for females.

Other Offense

Other offenses made up 15 percent of all DOC commitments. A notable statistic is the proportion of females committed to the DOC for an Other offense (33 %). The most common offenses for females were Operating Under the Influence (OUI) of Alcohol or Drugs, With or Without Injury (28%), Other Motor Vehicle Offenses (21%), Prostitution (19%), and Other Decency/Public Peace Crimes (15%). Five percent of males were committed for an Other offense. The majority (32%) were for Weapons Violation Barley Fox Gun Law, Other Weapon Offense (23%), and Operating Under the Influence (OUI) of Alcohol or Drugs (17%).

Section III: Sentencing

Sentence Type by Gender

Sixty-six percent of the DOC commitments were serving a State Prison sentence, followed by House of Correction (34%). Ninety-one percent of females committed were serving a House of Correction sentence and nine percent a State Prison sentence. Ninety-eight percent of males committed were serving a State Prison sentence and one percent a House of Correction sentence.

Minimum Sentence

Ninety-one percent of females were serving sentences with no minimum. In contrast, two percent of males were serving sentences with no minimum. Overall 34 percent of all DOC commitments were serving sentences with no minimum. For males with a minimum sentence, the most common sentences were 3 to less than 4 years (25%), 2 to less than 3 years (20%), and to less than 6 years (14%). Two to less than 3 years and 3 to less than 4 years were the most common sentences for females with a minimum sentence.

Maximum Sentence

The mean (average) and median maximum sentence was 4 and 3 years respectively, ranging from 7 days to 100 years excluding inmates serving Life sentences. The mean and median maximum sentence varied by gender. For males the mean maximum sentence was 5.8 years with a median of 5 years, for females the mean maximum sentence was 10.8 months with a median of 5.9 months.

Sixty-seven percent of the maximum sentences for females were less than one year. Ninety-three percent of the maximum sentences for females were less than 3 years. The largest proportion of maximum sentences for males fell into the category 3 to less than 4 years (22%), and to less than 6 years (19%). There were 57 (2%) cases with Life sentences.

Truth in Sentencing

Ninety-three percent of the new court commitments fall under the truth-in sentencing legislation affecting offenses committed after June 30, 1994. The proportion of males sentenced under the truth-in-sentencing legislation was 91 percent, while females constituted a slightly higher proportion (96%).

Trends

Trends in the DOC New Court Commitments, 1990 to 1999

This section contains tables and figures that describe New Court Commitments patterns and trends in the DOC since 1990. Tables and figures are presented on Gender, Race/Ethnicity, Age at Incarceration, Current Offense Category, Minimum Sentence, and Maximum Sentence.

DOC Commitments 1990 to 1999 (Table 18, Figure 3)

The number of commitments decreased from 1990 to 1993, increased from 1994 to 1995 and decreased again from 1996 to 1999. The number of new court commitments fell from 3,794 in 1990 to 2,637 in 1999 indicating a decline of about 31 percent. The increase in the rate of commitments beginning in 1994 interrupted the declining trend that existed between 1990 and 1999. The average annual rate of decline from 1990 to 1999 was 3.5 percent. For females the average annual rate of decline was 1.2 percent whereas for males it was 4.3 percent, indicating steeper decline in males than females.

The total number of criminally sentenced, new court commitments to the Department of Correction during 1999 was 2,677, down eight percent from previous year. Commitments of females increased 3 percent, while commitments of males dropped 13 percent during 1999.

The number of Caucasian offenders increased by 2 percent between 1998 and 1999. The number of African Americans decreased by 32 percent from 1994 to 1999. The number of Hispanics decreased from 842 in 1990 to 698 in 1999, a decrease of 17 percent. However, the proportion of Hispanic committed to the DOC increased from 22 percent in 1990 to 26 percent in 1999. The proportion of Asians committed to the DOC remained relatively unchanged from 1990 to 1999.

Age at Incarceration: 1990 to 1999 (Table 20, Figure 5)

The average age of the American population is rising, a trend reflected in the changing ages of individuals committed to the DOC. In 1990, individuals committed to the DOC age 30 or older comprised 43 percent all new court commitments whereas in 1999 individuals committed to the DOC age 30 or older comprised 58 percent of all new court commitments. The median age of offenders at incarceration was 28 years in 1990. By 1999, the median age at incarceration increased to 31 years.

The proportion of commitments for Person and Sex offenses has remained relatively constant since 1996. Over the ten year period the number of Person offense decreased by 24 percent from 1,075 in 1990 to 818 in 1999. The number of Sex offenders decreased by 41 percent from 344 in 1990 to 202 in 1999. Property and Drug offenses decreased by 35 and 36 percent respectively over the same period. Other offenses increased 4 percent between 1998 and 1999.

Minimum Sentences: 1990 to 1999 (Table 22, Figure 7)

The distribution of minimum sentences over the past ten years has changed significantly. In 1990, the proportion of commitments for sentences with no minimum term was 44 percent of all DOC commitments. By 1999, the proportion of commitments with no minimum term fell to 34 percent, a 10 percentage point decrease. A notable change in the distribution of sentences occurred in the minimum sentence of less than 5 years. Commitments for sentences of less than 5 years increased from 22 percent in 1990 to 42 percent in 1999.

Significant changes occurred in the minimum sentences of 5 to less than 10 years and 10 to less than 20 years. From 1990 to 1999 the proportion of commitments with sentence of 5 less than 10 years decreased from 23 percent to 16 percent. The proportion of sentences with minimum term 10 to less than 20 decreased by 4 percent over the same period. The percentages of inmates with minimum sentences 20 years or more and Life remained fairly constant over the past ten years.

Maximum Sentence: 1990 to 1999 (Table 23, Figure 8)

Three notable trends in the maximum sentence over the past ten years are:

- a) the increase in the percentage of commitments receiving a maximum sentence for less than 5 years,
- b) the declines in the percentage of commitments receiving a maximum sentence for 5 to less than 10 years, and
- c) the decline in the percentage of commitments receiving a maximum sentence for 10 to less than 20 years.

From 1990 to 1999 the percentage of commitments receiving a maximum sentence for less than 5 years increased from 32 percent to 59 percent. In 1990, 34 percent of all commitments received a maximum sentence of 5 to less than 10 years whereas in 1999 30 percent of all commitments received a maximum sentence of 5 to less than 10 years. The percentage of inmates with a maximum term 10 to less than 20 years decreased from 27 percent to 7 percent from 1990 to 1999. The percentages of inmates serving a maximum of Life remained relatively constant over the past ten years.

Sentence/Sentence Type
State Prison Sentence	Prior to the “Truth in Sentencing” law, if an offender is sentenced to the State Prison, except for life or as an habitual criminal, the court shall not fix the term of imprisonment, but shall fix a maximum and minimum term for which he/she may be imprisoned. The minimum term shall not be less than two and a half years. All sentences which have a finite maximum term are eligible to have the term reduced by statutory good time, except for most sex offenses, crimes committed while confined and certain “mandatory” sentences. In the “new law”, all state sentences have a minimum and a maximum term, unless an inmate is sentenced for life or as a habitual criminal. The minimum term is used to determine parole eligibility, and the maximum term is used to determine discharge. Under both the “old” and “new” sentencing

	systems, an inmate is discharged from his/her sentence at the expiration of his term, less any statutory or earned good time. Under the “new” system none of the reduction will be attributable to statutory good time
Reformatory Sentence	Prior to the “Truth in Sentencing” law, males and females can be sentenced to a Reformatory sentence, an indefinite term, indicated by a maximum term. For MCI- Concord, a male not previously sentenced for felony more than three times, convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment in any correctional institution of the Commonwealth or by imprisonment in a jail or House of Correction may be sentenced for an indefinite term. Concord may confine misdemeanor offenders as well as those who commit felonies. A female convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment in a House of Correction, may be sentenced to the Massachusetts Correctional Institution-Framingham. In addition to those women who commit felonies, MCI-Framingham may confine female misdemeanor offenders. The “new” law eliminates “Concord” (or Framingham) sentences to the state reformatory.
House of Correction Sentence	Also known as a “County Sentence”. Prior to the “Truth in Sentencing” law, if an offender is sentenced to the House of Correction, the term shall be two and a half years or less. Parole eligibility and discharge are based on the maximum term of a sentence. Under the “new” law, discharge on this sentence will change because of the elimination of statutory good time. There is no change in the parole eligibility date.
Other State, Federal	This category is used for inmates who were received by the DOC from another state correctional agency or the Federal Bureau of Prisons and are not sentenced under Massachusetts General Law.
Truth in Sentencing Indicator	On January 12, 1994, the Governor signed into law an Act to Promote the Effective Management of the Criminal Justice System. St. 1993, c. 432, generally known as the “Truth in Sentencing” Law. Sentencing for offenses committed after
